CATHOLIC CHURCH

Will be Dedicated at Edmond
Next Week.

Edmond, Okla., Aug. 11.—On Wednesday, August 15, at 10 o'clock a. m., will occur the dedication services at the new Catholic church in this city.

The dedicatory service will be conducted by the Rt. Rev. Theophilus Meerschbaert, Bishop of Oklahoma and Indian Territories, assisted by a number of priests of this diocese, several of whom have at times been in charge of the church here.

The building is indeed a fine one, both in point of architecture and finish. The church proper is 30x70 feet, with a 24-foot ceiling. On the north is a commodious vestibule, while on the south is the sacristy, 12x16 feet. On either side of the building are five windows containing Gothic cathedral glass. These windows not only add to the beauty of the building but also assure plenty of light and fine ventilation for the church room. The tower, being 37 feet, 8 inches in height, and finished in an artistic manner, adds largely to the appearance of the structure. As a whole the building is first class in all appointments and would be a credit to a town seven times the size of Edmond.

CORDELL WINS OUT.

Cloud Chief Defeated for County Seat by 1,200 Majority.

The returns of the county seat election in Washita county have been received and counted, and show that the town of Cordell has 1,200 majority over Cloud Chief. Cordell is directly in the center of the county and there is much rejoicing over the victory.

A friend of the Daily Leader writes: CORDELL, O. T., Aug. 8. Dear Leader—Cordell has over 1,200 majority over Cloud Chief. Simply overwhelming. A. J. JOHNSON.

How to Keep Cool.

The St. Louis Post Dispatch furnishes its readers the following list of hot weather "don'ts."

Don't eat much meat.
Don't fret about the weather.
Don't walk block after block looking for a thermometer to see how hot it is in the broiling sun.
Don't think about the heat.
Don't worry.
Don't drink impure or sour milk.
Don't experiment with mixed drinks that are calculated to upset your stomach.
Don't wear heavy clothing, especially woollens.
Don't neglect to bathe freely. A bath every morning is a good beginning to the day.
Don't overwork yourself.
Don't walk in the sun, and don't walk too lively on an oppressively hot day.
Don't allow yourself to get excited.
Don't drink too much iced water in the heat of the day.
Don't exasperate your neighbor by asking, "Is it hot enough for you?"
Don't run for a street car as though it were the only car on the line.
Don't sit in a heavy draft to cool off while your body is full of perspiration.

New Bank.

The Eastern bank of Oklahoma, at Ralston, O. T., was issued a charter by Secretary Jenkins. The capital stock is placed at $60,000. The directors are H. E. Thompson, W. E. Berry, both of Stillwater, and E. A. Bullark, of Perry.

Wanted at once, horses and mules.

GLOBE SIGHTS.

From the Atchison Globe.

A man with a Great Fortune is like a Promising Colt.

You can start an argument any time by asking the meaning of the word creole.

Title of a late serio-comic song: "Come In, But Don't Spit On the Floor."

A farmer is a great kicker. So is a town man, so far as that is concerned.

An Atchison young man who thought he was marrying a lot of money, really married a lot of trouble.

A barrel full of sermons on the next world will not touch a man as quickly as the death of a man of his own age.

A woman is never proud down to her toes of an out-of-town guest, unless the guest is invited to sing in her church choir.

QUAKER REFLECTIONS.

From the Philadelphia Record.

It's funny that the heaviest drinkers live in the temperate zone.

One of the greatest pleasures of the poor is to criticize the pleasures of the rich.

"No woman," says the Manayunk Philosopher, "can be too good to be true."

"It takes a minute," says a marriageable girl, "to properly tie a beau-knot."

Many a man gets a reputation abroad for being shrewd, who at home is merely beshrewed.

Father—"How did you come to get zero in school?" Truthful Tommy—"I guess 'cause I was naughty-y."

Belle—"Yes, Tom and I are to be partners for life." Nell—"Yes, and it's so odd that you'll be the senior partner."

Have You Seen Her?

She eats 'em alive. Bosco, the wild girl, eats snakes, and eats 'em alive.

She was captured in the wilds of Australia and it took forty men to handle her with ropes. She was living on poisonous reptiles. She eats 'em alive.

It makes your flesh crawl but not hers. It takes three of them to make her a square meal. She prefers lizards—live lizards—for deserts; and for a change she eats a few scorpions with toaststools for vegetables.

Yes, she eats 'em alive. Step right in. It only costs you five cents to see her eat 'em alive. Today she will eat a rattlesnake (hear his rattle now) and she'll eat him alive. She'll make a raw dinner of him while he's coiling for aggressive operations. He can't rattle her. She eats 'em alive.

We fed her on blue racers for a week and she got out and ran away from us. You know things grow, stand, walk and run on what they feed on. She ate a spreading-adder yesterday, and last night she hissed in her sleep.

Little is known of her history. Bosco is more poisonous than poison. She has in her, in the words of the mad Dane, "that which possesses show," but not the show which she herself is. Remember, she eats 'em alive, and that is why she is not only the wildest but the liveliest feminine beauty on the island of Coney.

One more ticket and she'll eat 'em alive. Once more she feasts! The Queen of Wonders once more to her live banquet goes. She eats 'em alive.

PERSONAL MENTION.

ATLANTA DAILY CONSTITUTION

Now Running a Special Campaign Offer, Only $1.00.

The Constitution, of Atlanta, Ga., is now offering its daily and Sunday editions complete to new subscribers, from the date the order reaches that office until November 10th, for only $1.00. This last campaign offer will take the subscriber beyond and give him the full news of the presidential election. The period thus covered will be of unusual interest, not only because of the election and the questions pending thereon, but it will be full of events and guesses at the truth of reported events in China. The struggle is on between the "yellow terrors" and the "foreign devils," and it will consume the world's attention for many months to come. It is probable that South Africa will become peaceful on a basis that will allow the spunky Boers to lay down their arms with honor. Cuba and the Philippines are with us, and until their status is determined their questions will continue to be ours. The Constitution always covers all the news completely, and this exceptional offer will doubtless test their full capacity in supplying the paper to thousands of thirsty subscribers. The sooner you send for it the longer you will get the paper for your dollar.

Victories in the Mercantile World

Are only won by perseverance coupled with the good generalship that characterizes the successful military general. Alert business fellows are quick to recognize this fact, and, coupled with the requisite tenacity, they take advantage of every opportunity, every point that will plant the banner of success nearer the desired goal, every feature that will increase and strengthen their business.

Modern, persistent advertising—reaching the largest number in the quickest possible time—is fully recognized as the short route to business success. To interest the largest number in the shortest possible time is naturally your wish, and the only manner in which this can be safely accomplished is by advertising.

If you're something of interest that you feel will appeal to the public, tell of it in the Leader. The returns will prove satisfying, for our readers are a class whose trade will give your business a forward bound, whose patronage is well worth the asking.

Many women throughout the country make pin money out of their chickens. We have known women who have clothed the entire family with the proceeds of the poultry yard, and some have paid off mortgages on others have bought their homes by intelligent management of their flocks. Everybody interested in chickens should get Biggle's Poultry Book. It is so full of helpful suggestions and short cuts to success, and has so many years of costly experience boiled down for its pages that it is poor economy to be without it. It will help increase the income from the poultry yard, and has started many an amateur or misguided professional on the right track. The price is 50 cents, free by mail; address the publishers, Wilmer Atkinson Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

COLONY

From Ohio Starts For Oklahoma.

Scraps-McRae Press Ass'n.

Massillon, Ohio, Aug. 11.—Fifty residents of this city left last night for Oklahoma where they will take up claims on government lands and establish a colony under plans which have been formed by local labor leaders. They will form a plan of government in conformity with the peculiar ideas of local students of the socialistic problems.

FARM AND HOME

The Best Farm and Family Paper in the United States.

Believing that every one of our readers should have at least one good agricultural and family journal, we have perfected arrangements whereby we can send that practical and instructive journal FARM AND HOME, in connection with THE WEEKLY LEADER and the Handy Atlas of the World on remarkably liberal terms as given below. Lack of space forbids but a brief description of the contents of Farm and Home, which is unequalled for variety and excellence. Prominent among its many departments may be mentioned the Farm and Garden Market reports, Fruit Culture, Plans and Inventions. The Apiary, Talks with a Lawyer, Around the Globe, Live Stock Diary, The Poultry Yard, The Question Box, Plants and Flowers, The Veterinary, Fashions and Fancy Work, Household Features.

Farm and Home is published semi-monthly, thus giving you 24 numbers a year, the whole making a volume of over 600 pages, containing the latest and most reliable information that experience and science can supply.

By special arrangements we make for a limited time the following liberal offer:

Weekly Leader, Price 50c.
Farm and Home, 5c.
Webster Dictionary, 25c.
Atlas of the World, 25c.
Total, $1.50

ALL FOUR FOR 70c.

THE COMPREHENSIVE WEBSTER DICTIONARY is a work of extraordinary interest to all classes of progressive people. It contains 60,000 words which is all the average person has any use for.

It also contains twelve departments as follows: 1. Abbreviations; 2. Pronouncing Dictionary; 3. Proper names; 4. Gazetteer of the world; 5. Large Cities; 6. Parliamentary Rules; 7. Business Instructor; 8. Social Etiquette; 9. Letter Writing; 10. Use of Capitals; 11. Punctuation; 12. Postal Guide.

It contains 162 pages, handsomely bound in imitation leather covers, and is especially designed for pocket use.

ATLAS OF THE WORLD and City Guide. This is the most comprehensive and valuable book of its kind ever published and contains 24 pages beautiful colored maps. The maps are not cheap prints—they are just as finely as those in books 10 or 100 times its size—are all in four and five colors. The maps cover not only the world in a general way, but many of them are in detail, showing important points in the whole world which anyone might want to find.

In addition to the maps, and possibly not less valuable, is a fund of statistical and other facts of great value for daily if not hourly references.

It contains 64 pages; handsomely bound in imitation leather, and especially designed for pocket use.

Recital of Battle at Tien Tsin
Between Chinese and the Allied Forces.

Dr. R. E. Diffendorfer, of Philadelphia, the builder and manager of the first woolen mill establishment in the Chinese Empire and the personal friend of United States Consul General Ragdale and of Poo Tong, a brother to the Chinese emperor that was, tells the following story of the attack at Tien Tsin:

"It was on the mornin' of July 17, that the first clash between foreigners and the empire's soldiers occurred. On the afternoon of the same day, the bombardment of the Taku forts began. Captain Bailey of the British ship Orlando was commander of the allied forces at Tien Tsin on July 17, as Captain McCalla was absent with Seymour at the time.

At about 11 o'clock in the forenoon he saw some smoke rising in the direction of the railroad track about four miles distant from the city and suspecting that the Boxers had fired another bridge, Captain Bailey ordered thirty of his blue jackets, commanded by a midshipman, whose name I have forgotten, to proceed to the spot and investigate. We had a three inch gun and the men were fully armed. When our flat car had traveled about three miles we found a bridge in which the timbers had been burned away from the iron girders and considering it unsafe to cross, our commander ordered his men to return to the city. We had gone about 300 yards on the back trip, when we saw a lot of Chinese soldiers—about 150—crossing the track at a point a mile ahead of us. They were walking very rapidly and as we approached them all doubts as to their being imperial troops disappeared. They did not wear the red turban and sash that distinguished the Boxers, and as soon as we got within about 800 yards of them they scattered and got behind the grave mounds with which the surface of the country, was thickly studded. Regarding this action as suspicious, our midshipman gave the order to fire a volley and they quickly and vigorously returned the salute. Our field piece was minus a sight and most of its shots passed over the enemy, so that after ten minutes of hot fire we resumed our retreat, the Chinese firing at us as long as we were within range.

There were no casualties on our side. The most important feature was of that incident was its bearing on the subsequent proceedings. It had not been for the action our party that morning the bombardment of Tien Tsin might not have commenced that afternoon, in other words I am inclined to believe that our attack on the Chinese troops precipitated the bombardment of the city.

And for that reason the skirmish may attain some importance when final settlements are being made."

Dr. Diffendorfer opines that the trouble in China will be at an end with a couple of years at the farthest.

"It will be a repetition of the Paf Ting rebellion," he said, "when the allies have captured Peking the Boxers will be broken into band of marauders."

Chas. McIntire, a Toronto, Canada, man, but an American citizen, who was Mr. Diffendorfer's assistant in the woolen mills says:

"I think I must have spent about fifteen days in the tower. I was doing sharpshooting most of the time. We got Lee-Metford rifles from the arsenal and how many Mongolians they brought to death I don't know. I tried to run three engines out of Peking, but did not get far. I think we must have got half way through. Bodies of Chinese were lying along the track, headless and butchered. It was workers for the Boxers. They fought with spears and knives until they got in with imperial troops and would not use foreign guns. Now they have lots of them and they shoot well. The tower commanded a view of the entire situation for miles. In the lower part of the building the marines and soldiers were holding positions against the attacking party—they had loopholed the building, by removing the bricks, and it was necessary that they should be kept posted on the movements of the enemy so as to be prepared for the charges. We signaled to them from the tower and arranged to let them know exactly where the Chinese were.

"These are the kind of bullets we used," said this speaker as he drew several cartridges from his pocket. "They are dum dum bullets and we got them from the Chinese arsenal. They will tear a man to pieces and were probably intended for our fellows but we gave the Chinese a dose of their own medicine.

"The Chinese had three guns in all, trained upon the mill. They shot the dwellings into ruins and damaged the mill considerably. In all 100 marines were injured. The American soldiers that came to our rescue while we were in the shot riddled tower filled our hearts with emotion indescribable. The marines were the first to come around the bend near the tower and they made a magnificent appearance with the flag, flying at the head of the column. The people fairly went mad with joy at the sight of reinforcements.

"The best fighters among the allies are the Americans, British and Japs. The Japs have earned a most enviable record for discipline and bravery. The army seemed to be made up of men of exactly the same size and their equipment was perfect. They are brave and patient. The American soldiers have earned a great reputation for fighting qualities. Every man of them is a soldier of the best quality. The boys seemed to have the dash and energy that was lacking in some of the European commands."
